PREFACE.

THE Collection of Chinese, Annamese, Japanese, Corean, and Charm Coins, of which a description accompanied by plates is now for the first time published, is certainly, so far as the coins of China are concerned, one of the most complete in existence, containing as it does specimens of coins from the earliest times up to the present day. It was made by the late Mr. G. B. GLOVER, of the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs, who was well known as an enthusiastic collector of coins and a great authority on the numismatics of China and the countries adjacent to the Chinese Empire. It is hoped that the description of a collection so complete and especially the plates, which have been printed from blocks, cut under the direction of the late Mr. GLOVER and kindly placed at my disposal by Mrs. GLOVER, will prove useful to those who are interested in the coins of the Farther East.

The specimens of Chinese bank notes described on page 197, Vol. I., and illustrated on pages 197-201, Vol. II., are not only interesting in themselves, but the ornamental borders are also very good examples of the fineness and delicacy of the Chinese art of engraving on wood.

A list of the authorities, Chinese and European, consulted for the purpose of compiling the present description will be found on pages 219-223.

I have to thank Dr. S. W. BUSHELL of Her Majesty's Legation, Peking, for helping me to decipher some of the inscriptions on the ancient coins of China; H. E. MIN YOUNG IK (閔泳翊) for explaining some of the inscriptions on the Corean coins; Mr. T. J. NAKAGAWA, Consul for Japan in Hongkong, for assisting me in ascertaining the dates and translating the legends of the Japanese coins; and Mr. MCLEAVY BROWN, of the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs, for helping to arrange the plates. To Mr. MOK MAN CH'EUNG (莫文暢), Translator in the Supreme Court, and to Mr. WONG K'I CH'O (王岐初), Chinese Writer in the Registrar General's Office, Hongkong, and to Dr. HO KAI I am indebted for aid in translating some of the inscriptions on the Chinese coins and notes. My thanks are also due to Mr. C. NORONHA and Mr. J. BRAGA, of Messrs. NORONHA & Co., for the skilful manner in which the plates have been printed.

I hope at some future date to publish, as a companion volume to the two now published, a history of the currency of the Farther East, including the coinage of China, Japan, Annam, Corea, together with a chronological index of and guide to the inscriptions to be found on the coins of those countries.

J. H. STEWART LOCKHART.

PRINTERS' NOTE.

To those interested in the art of printing, the unique collection of woodcuts, executed entirely by Chinese artists, contained in Volume II. of the "Currency of the Farther East" affords an excellent illustration of the art of wood engraving as practised by the Chinese. While photogravure is rapidly displacing this ancient art in Europe, the conservative Chinaman still adheres to the old method of illustrating his books by means of woodcuts.

Owing to the peculiar custom, which is usual among the Chinese, of printing from boards of irregular thicknesses, great difficulty has been experienced in dealing with these blocks on a modern press. Though the result obtained, as shown in the accompanying volume, may not be perfect, it is hoped that the illustrations will prove interesting as examples of the art of wood engraving among the Chinese.

As a rule the plates follow each other in numerical order, but where this has not been practicable, reference is made, in a footnote, to the page on which the plates appear.

* Note.—元寶 Yüan Pao. The meaning of this term is doubtful. It is generally translated as "original coin" in this description. Currency or coin is perhaps more correct. In the 古泉滙 Ku Ch'üan Hui 元寶 Yüan Pao is said to have been a name for a rich man. The term is also stated to have arisen from the legend on the coins of the T'ang Dynasty being read 開通元寶 K'ai T'ung Yüan Pao and not 開元通寶 K'ai Yüan T'ung Pao. 元寶 Yüan Pao is translated by Wylie and Bushell as "large coin."

"The common name for this cash is 羅漢銅錢 Lo Han T'ung Ch'ien, 'Lo Han brass cash.' Lo Han, given in Buddhist books as 阿羅漢 O-lo-han is the sanskirt Arhan, 'Venerable,' the name applied to the eighteen attendants of Buddha. The current tradition is that, while the Emperor was intimately associated with the European missionaries, he became imbued with a feeling of contempt for Buddhism, and illustrated this phase in his faith by having a set of eighteen brass Lo-han images melted down and cast into cash. This brass is said to contain a considerable portion of gold, hence the great demand for the cash."

GOVERNMENT AND PRIVATE NOTES.

I.

A Government Note. The border is ornamented with five dragons flying through clouds, all attracted by a pearl emitting rays like flames. At the bottom are waves on which float precious emblems. Enclosed by this border is an oblong space with a smaller oblong frame at the top, half of which is occupied by the Manchu characters "Poihum ni churhan ni alpan temket'u," and the 4 Chinese characters 戶部官票, Hu Pu Kuan Piao, "Board of Revenue Government note." In the middle of the large oblong space from top to bottom in one straight line are printed the characters 準二兩平足色銀.....兩 Chun Erh Liang P'ing Sê Yin..... Liang, "Equivalent to... . taels of pure silver by the two-tael scale." On the right side are impressed . ...字 第 . .. 號.... Tzŭ Ti..... Hao, "..... character number... ," leaving blank spaces in which to insert the numeral character and the figures that form the number of the note. On the left are printed 咸豐三年..... 月..... 日, Hsien Fêng San Nin..... Yüeh . .. Jih, "Hsien Fêng 3rd year..... moon..... day." At the bottom is a foot-note bearing the following words:— 戶部奏行官票凡願將官票兌銀錢者與銀一律前准按部定章程搭交官項僞造者依律治罪不貸 Hu Pu Tsou Hsing Kuan Piao Fan Yüan Chiang Kuan Piao Tui Yin Ch'ien Chê Yü Yin Yi Lü Ping Chun An Pu Ting Chang Ch'êng Ta Chiao Kuan Hsiang Wei Tsao Chê I Lü Chih Tsui Pu Tai, "The Board of Reveuue having memorialized as to circulatiug Government notes, such notes shall in all cases be equivalent (in value) to silver whenever any person may desire to exchange them for silver and cash, and in accordance with the regulations enacted by the Board (of Revenue) they may be used along with other forms of money to pay Government dues. Those who counterfeit them shall be punished according to law without pardon."

II.

At the top are the characters 大清寶鈔 Ta Ch'ing Pao Ch'ao, "Money note (Lit. valuable paper money) of the Great Ch'ing (Dynasty)." The border has at the top 2 dragons striving for a pearl which is emitting rays of flames. The two sides of the border are ornamented with clouds separated by circles containing on the right the characters 天下通行 Tien Hsia T'ung Hsing, "Current throughout the whole Empire," and, on the left, 公平出入 Kung P'ing Ch'u Ju, "Issued and received at equal value." At the bottom is the fabulous mountain of precious stones with a coral tree growing in the midst of waves. In the middle of the space enclosed by the border are written in a straight line 準足制錢壹千文 Chun Tsu Chih Ch'ien Yi Ch'ien Wên, "Value 1,000 cash of full standard weight." On the right are impressed.....字第.....號.....Tzŭ Ti Hao, "..... character number." On the left 咸豐七年製 Hsien Fêng Ch'i Nien Chih, "Made in the 7th year of Hsien Fêng." At the foot of the plate are printed these characters:— 此鈔即代制錢行用並准按成交納地丁錢糧一切稅課捐項京外各庫一概收解每錢鈔貳千文抵換官票銀壹兩 Tzŭ Ch'ao Chi Tai Chih Ch'ien Hsing Yung Ping Chun An Ch'êng Chiao Na Ti Ting Ch'ien Liang Yi Ch'i Shui K'ê Chüan Hsiang Ching Wai Ko K'u Yi K'ai Shou Chieh Mei Ch'ien Ch'ao Erh Ch'ien Wên Ti Huan Kuan Piao Yin Yi Liang, "These notes shall circulate in place of standard cash and are allowed to be received in the proportions laid down for payments of land taxes and customs duties, and for the purchase of rank. the Treasuries outside the capital shall, without exception, accept and forward them. A cash note of 2,000 cash shall be exchangeable for a Government (silver) note of one tael."

III.

This note has two ornamental borders; the outer one is engraved with pictures of the 24 examples of filial piety, each having a heading of 4 characters. The headings are—

爲母埋兒 Wei Mu Mai Erh, "Burying his son for the sake of his mother." 郭巨 Kuo Chü had an aged mother to support in addition to his own faimly. Being in great want, Kuo Chü and his wife decided to bury their child in order to minister to their mother's wants. While digging the hole for burying the child, Kuo Chü found a bar of gold, with the inscription "A gift from heaven to Kuo Chü. Let none deprive him of it." (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 303.)

2.

孝感動天 Hsiao Kan Tung T'ien, "His filial piety moved Heaven," referring to 舜 Shun, whose conduct attracted the notice of 堯 Yao, who made Shun his successor upon the throne. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 617.)

3.

賣身葬父 Mai Shên Tsang Fu, "Selling himself for the purpose of burying his father," referring to 董永 Tung Yung. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 691.)

4.

親嘗湯藥 Ch'in Shang T'ang Yao, "Tasting with his own mouth the medicine," referring to 文帝

Digitized by Google

Wên Ti of the Han dynasty, renowned for his filial devotion to his mother, 薄太后 Po T'ai Hou, during her sickness which lasted for three years. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 853.)

5.

戲綵奉親 Hsi Ts'ai Fêng Ch'in, "Disporting in gaudy garbs while waiting on his parents." Such was the conduct of 老萊子 Lao Lai-tzŭ of the Chou Dynasty who behaved like a child, though seventy years of age, before his parents so that they might not think they were getting old. (See Lockhart's Manual of Chinese Quotations, p. 76 No. 2.)

6.

行傭供母 Hsing Yung Kung Mu, "Supporting his mother by menial service." So did 江革 Chiang Kê of the Ch'i dynasty, A.D. 490, after he had rescued his mother from a band of brigands by carrying her many miles on his back. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 255.)

7.

拾椹供親 Shih Chên Kung Ch'in, "Gathering mulberries to supply his mother," as 蔡順 Ts'ai Shun did during a famine, living on the unripe fruit himself. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 752.)

8.

乳姑不怠 Ju Ku Pu T'ai, "Suckling her mother-in-law unweariedly." So did 唐崔氏 T'ang Ts'ui Shih when her mother-in-law was old and toothless.

刻木奉親 K'ê Mu Fêng Ch'in, "Carving his parents' (images) in wood and waiting on them," as did 丁蘭 Ting Lan, offering to the images the same respect as he had done to his parents when they were alive. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 670.)

10.

懷橘還親 Huai Chü I Ch'in, "Pocketing oranges to present to his mother," as did 陸績 Lu Chi when only six years of age.

11.

咬指痛心 Yao Chih T'ung Hsin, "Feeling a pain in his heart when (his mother) bit her finger." Such was felt by 曾參 Tsêng Shên. He happened to be absent when his mother wanted him so she bit her finger and Tsêng, feeling a sympathetic twinge, returned home at once. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 739.)

12.

嚐糞憂心 Shang Fên Yu Hsin, "His heart was pained after tasting the excreta (of his sick father)." Such were the feelings of 庾黔婁 Yü Ch'ien-lou. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 950.)

13.

恣蚊飽血 Tzŭ Mên Pao Hsüeh, "Allowing mosquitoes to feed on his blood to their utmost," as 吳猛 Wu Mêng did, lest they should trouble his parents. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 868.)

14.

鹿乳奉親 Lu Ju Fêng Ch'in, "(Looking for) deer's milk (with which) to minister to his parents."

Digitized by Google

The parents of 剡子 Yên Tzŭ having expressed a wish for some doe's milk, Yên Tzŭ, clad in a deer's skin, waited in a forest until he was able to obtain the desired luxury. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 916.)

15.

棄官尋母 Hsi Kuan Hsün Mu, "Abandoning office to look for his mother." This 朱壽昌 Chu Shou-ch'ang did, and was rewarded for his devotion by finding his mother after a separation of 50 years. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 81.)

16.

17.

扇枕温衾 Shan Chên Wên Ch'in, "Fanning the pillows and warming the sleeping coverlet," as 黃香 Huang Hsiang did for his father in summer and winter. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 217.)

18.

爲母負米 Wei Mu Fu Mi, "Carrying rice for the sake of his mother," as did 仲由 Chung Yu alias 子路 Tzŭ Lu who said that in the days when he was poor he carried rice upon his back for the support of those who gave him birth, and would gladly do so again, if he could recall them to life. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 91.)

單衣順母 Tan I Shun Mu, "Meagrely clad but still obedient." 閔損 Min Sun was mal-treated by his step-mother who had three children of her own. She clad him only in the leaves of plants. His father finding this out wanted to send his wife away, but Min Sun deterred him by saying—"It is better that one should suffer from cold than that three children should be motherless."

20.

湧泉躍鯉 Yung Ch'üan Yo Li, "Carp jumping out of a bubbling spring." 姜詩 Chiang Shih, in order to gratify his mother, went a long distance every day to draw water and obtain fish. His devotion was rewarded by a spring bursting forth and daily producing carp. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 256.)

21.

聞雷泣墓 Wên Lei Ch'i Mu, "Weeping at (his mother's) tomb on hearing thunder." 王裒 Wang Yu in filial memory of his mother, who when alive always stood in dread of thunder, used to repair to her grave whenever a thunderstorm occurred. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 805A.)

22.

哭竹生笋 K'u Chou Shêng Sun, "His weeping caused the bamboos to put forth their shoots." The mother of 孟宗 Mêng Tsung having expressed a wish during winter for bamboo sprouts, Mêng Tsung went into the woods and wept because it was not possible to gratify his mother's wish at that time of the year, when suddenly the bamboos around him began to sprout. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 499.)

23.

臥冰求鯉 Wo Ping Ch'iu Li, "Lying on the ice and seeking for carp." This 王祥 Wang Hsiang did when his step-mother expressed a desire to have some fresh fish. The ice was melted by the heat of his body and he succeeded in securing the desired fish.

24.

滌親溺器 T'iao Ch'in Ni Ch'i, "Washing the utensil of his mother," referring to the filial conduct of 黃庭堅 Huang T'ing-chien. (V. Mayers' Manual, Part I, No. 266.)

The inner border is embellished with pictures of high pagodas, balconies, ornamental buildings, etc. At the top of the note are the characters: 吉林西街 Chi Lin Hsi Chieh, "Kirin, West Street." Below these characters are 萬泰成 Wan T'ai Ch'êng "The Wan T'ai Ch'êng (Firm)." The space within the borders has four divisions. In the first division are printed..... 字.....號.....Tzŭ..... Hao, "..... PREFACE.

The accompanying volume is intended to serve as a guide to the dates and inscriptions of the coins of China, Annam, Japan, Corea, and of the coins with Chinese characters issued in the East Indian Archipelago, Borneo, Siam, and the Malay Peninsula.

Every one interested in the numismatics of the Farther East must have experienced the difficulties of deciphering the inscriptions of Far Eastern coins, and of assigning each coin to its proper date of issue. It is hoped that this volume will, to a great extent, remove those difficulties.

To facilitate inquiry into the date of the issue of each coin, chronological tables have been compiled, giving the Emperors and Dynasties of China, Annam, and Japan.

In the compilation of the chronological tables of China, use has been made of the tables contained in Mayers' Manual for the Emperors and Dynasties of the regular line. For the Rulers and Dynasties not belonging to the regular line, I have relied on the Chi Yüan P'ien (紀元編), which forms Vol. IX. of the work entitled 李氏五種, written by the well-known Chinese Minister, H. E. Li Hung Chang.

The chronological tables of Annam are taken from the article by Mr. Toda in the Journal of the China Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society.

The chronological tables of the Dynasties of Japan have been compiled principally with the aid of Bramsen's "Chronological Tables."

The index of the inscriptions, &c. is arranged alphabetically, each inscription being placed under the first letter of the Pekingese sound of the first Chinese character of the inscription, e.g., the inscription 開元通寶 will be found under K, the first letter of K'ai, the Pekingese sound of 開, which is the first character of the inscription.

In the classification of the coins of Corea, the article on "The Coinage of Corea," in Vol. XXVII (New Series) of the Journal of the China Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society, by C. T. Gardner, C.M.G., has been of great assistance, and I have also received much help from Dr. E. B. Landis, of the Church of England Mission, Chemulpo, and Mr. W. H. Wilkinson, of H. M.'s Consular Service in China.

For information regarding the coins of the East-Indian Archipelago, Borneo, Siam, and the Malay Peninsula, I am indebted to the works of Millies and Van Der Chijs.

I have to thank Mr. K. Uyeno, Consul for Japan in Hongkong, for helping to revise the chronological tables of the Emperors and Dynasties of Japan; Mr. Choh, of the Yokohama Specie Bank, for a list of the most recent issue of coins in Japan; Mr. Sung Sing (宋星), of the Registrar General's Office, Hongkong, and Mr. Mok Man Ch'éung (莫文暢), Translator in the Supreme Court of Hongkong, for assistance in connection with the Index; Mr. Au Fung-ch'i (區鳳墀), and Mr. Ts'oi Yeuk-shán (蔡若山), of the Registrar General's Office, for help in compiling the chronological tables. Mr. J. P. Braga, of Messrs. Noronha & Co., has been of great aid in correcting proofs and seeing the work through the press.

J. H. STEWART LOCKHART.

* In addition to the tin coins with Chinese inscriptions, porcelain counters with Chinese characters, originally used for gambling purposes, were current in Siam. A description of these "porcelain coins" will be found in Schlegel's Siamesische u Chinesisch-Siamesische Münsen (in Internationales Archiv f Ethnographie, Band II.) See also C. pp. 139-180. These coins are inscribed with the following values:—

錢 or 錢 = 1 Saloeng—in abbreviated form 卞
方 = 1 Foeang " " 寸
宋派 = 1 Songpai
派 = 1 Pai
百文 = 1 At

(1 Tical = 4 Saloeng = 8 Foeang = 16 Songpai = 32 Pai = 64 At.)
